Client's selected investment options

Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension offer clients a range of investment options to choose from. Please refer to the Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension investment options PDS for the full list of available investment options.

A TMD for each investment option detailing the type of client the investment has been designed for, having regard to the objectives, financial situation and needs of the target market will be made available by the issuers of the Generations investment options PDS. The Generations investment options PDS and TMDs are available on North Online and should be considered when deciding whether to acquire the investments.

A summary of the type of options available to Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension clients is detailed below:

Submarket	Description
Standalone	These options are highly diversified and an allocation of >75% to a standalone option would not be considered to present an undue risk of harm to clients in the target market. Example – Generations Balanced
Core	These options are diversified and may be used as a core component in the construction of a portfolio. Holdings in any one core option of >75% may result in increased risk of harm, either through heightened volatility or opportunity cost, depending on a client's age or investment horizon. Example – Generations Conservative
Satellite	These options are generally targeted strategies that provide exposure to a single asset class, and therefore are expected to be used as a component of a diversified portfolio. Holdings in any one satellite option of >25% may result in increased risk of harm, either through heightened volatility or opportunity cost, depending on a client's age or investment horizon. Example – Vanguard Australian Shares Index
Gearred	These options use gearing which increases both investment gains and losses, so short-term risk is amplified. These options require clients to accept a heightened level of volatility and may not be appropriate for clients in the target market with shorter investment horizons. Example – Colonial First State Wholesale Geared Australian Share
Restrictive	These options include strategies taking specific investment risks to enhance returns, such as accepting reduced liquidity or portfolio diversification. Large allocations to these options may result in an increased risk of harm for clients with shorter investment horizons or immediate liquidity needs. Example – AMP Capital Australian Property Fund

Insurance options available

Optional insurance cover is available to clients of Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension from a number of insurers. Clients will potentially be in the target market for insurance subject to:

- Underwriting and acceptance by insurer
- Eligibility requirements, which can include:
 - Australian residency
 - age
 - family
 - employment type
 - hours worked
 - automatic insurance exclusion
- Exclusions, which can include:
 - any act of war
 - Intentional self-inflicted injury or illness or intended self-harm or attempted suicide

A condition of release will need to be satisfied before the Trustee can release a benefit payment to the client or their eligible beneficiaries.

Full details of eligibility requirements (including age) and exclusions are detailed in the relevant insurance PDS and TMD which should be considered when deciding whether to acquire that product. Please refer to each insurer's PDS and TMD for more information at northonline.com.au/generations

Other elements of TMD

Consistency between the target market and the product

Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension

Superannuation is a highly regulated compulsory savings vehicle for retirement. Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension are likely to be consistent with the likely objectives, financial situation and needs for a broad range of clients including those who are required to have a super fund to receive compulsory super guarantee contributions or would like to voluntarily use super to save for retirement. Generations Personal Pension allows clients who meet eligibility criteria in super law to be able to access their retirement savings as regular income payments.

Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension are suitable for clients who have engaged a financial adviser to provide personal advice that requires collection and analysis of information relating to the client's individual objectives, financial situation and needs.

Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension offer the ability to tailor investments and insurance to meet the needs of different clients in the target market.

Generations Personal Super and Generations Personal Pension offer optional insurance subject to underwriting and acceptance by the insurer, and the ability to cancel existing cover if it isn't appropriate.

Distributors must report to N.M. Super using the method specified in the FSC Data Standards, please find these under the Data Standards heading at the following link: <https://www.fsc.org.au/resources/target-market-determination-templates>.

Significant Dealings Guidance

Distributor reporting
Significant dealings	Section 994F(6) of the Act requires distributors to notify the issuer if they become aware of a significant dealing in the product that is not consistent with the TMD. Neither the Act nor ASIC defines when a dealing is 'significant' and distributors have discretion to apply its ordinary meaning. The issuer will rely on notifications of significant dealings to monitor and review the product, this TMD, and its distribution strategy, and to meet its own obligation to report significant dealings to ASIC. Dealings outside this TMD may be significant because: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – they represent a material proportion of the overall distribution conduct carried out by the distributor in relation to the product, or – they constitute an individual transaction which has resulted in, or will, or is likely to result in, significant detriment to the client (or class of client). In each case, the distributor should have regard to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – the actual or potential harm to a client (which may be indicated by the value of the client's investment, their intended product use or their ability to bear loss), and – the nature and extent of the inconsistency of distribution with the TMD (which may be indicated by red or amber ratings attributed to the client). Objectively, a distributor may consider a dealing (or group of dealings) outside the TMD to be significant if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – it constitutes more than half of the distributor's total retail product distribution conduct in relation to the product over the reporting period.
